UNITED STATES AIR FORCE

CHIEF MASTER SERGEANT BARBARA J. GILMORE

Chief Master Sergeant Barbara J. Gilmore is the Command Chief Master Sergeant, 932d Airlift Wing, Scott Air Force Base, Illinois. Chief Gilmore leads the enlisted force and advises commanders on matters impacting the enlisted force, such as proper utilization, readiness, professional development, training, and quality of life issues. She ensures the commander's policies are widely publicized and understood by the enlisted force, and serves as the functional manager for all assigned first sergeants.

Chief Gilmore entered active duty Air Force in July 1992. She graduated from the Combat Arms Training and Maintenance Course in November 1992 at Lackland Air Force Base, Texas. In 1997 she became a member of Security Forces when the career fields merged. In January 2000, Chief Gilmore was one of the first women to graduate from the Phoenix Raven School. After this training she went on numerous missions that spanned the globe. Chief Gilmore left the active duty Air Force in 2004 and became a Security Forces Individual Mobilization Augmentee at RAF Lakenheath. In January of 2009, she transferred to the Reserves, where she crossed trained into the Aerospace Medical Service as a medical technician and was assigned to the 932d Airlift Wing. She has filled different roles including 4N Functional Manager and additional-duty First Sergeant. Prior to her current position, she was the Chief Enlisted Manager of the 932d Medical Squadron, Scott AFB, Ill.
